

Give While You Live

"As long as it is day, we must do the works of him who sent me." John 9:4

A successful businessman spent the last few decades of his life doing all he could to give away his fortune. A multibillionaire, he donated cash to a variety of causes such as bringing peace to Northern Ireland and modernizing Vietnam's health care system; and not long before he died, he spent $350 million to turn New York City's Roosevelt Island into a technology hub. The man said, "I believe strongly in giving while living. I see little reason to delay giving. . . . Besides, it's a lot more fun to give while you live than to give while you're dead." Give while you live—what an amazing attitude to have.

In John's account of the man born blind, Jesus' disciples were trying to determine "who sinned" (9:2). Jesus briefly addressed their question by saying, "Neither this man nor his parents sinned . . . but this happened so that the works of God might be displayed in him. As long as it is day, we must do the works of him who sent me" (vv. 3–4). Though our work is very different from Jesus' miracles, no matter how we give of ourselves, we're to do so with a ready and loving spirit. Whether through our time, resources, or actions, our goal is that the works of God might be displayed.

For God so loved the world that He gave. In turn, let's give while we live.
